8,

To 1: TSS and TR(S) capabilities of meeting proposed Phase B course requirements are practically non-existent. Advice from both technical specialists and qualified operations personnel indicate that it is useless to attempt to develop the "operational utilization" aspects of the required training material until the technical capability is developed. This will require full time assignment to such an activity of professionally qualified specialists in at least four specific technical fields, the procurement of a number of items of equipment and a period of specialized research outside of the Agency in each of these specialized areas.
